

amusement to our citizens and strangers, and a magnet which has attracted wealth from the far. The loss is estimated at 20,000 dollars. The fire had subsided, a very melancholy catastrophe occurred. A great part of the south wall of the museum fell in the chapel burying-ground, and six young men, and wounded several others, killed, are William, son of Capt. Michael Haged 11, a promising youth. John, son of Mr. Conton, (one of the prebendary employed in the office) aged 14. Henry Fullerton, aged 20, apprentice of Mr. Richard Thayer, housewright. Peabody, of Shibley, an apprentice of Mr. German, blacksmith, aged 15. Joshua Urann, apprentice of Mr. Ayes, cooper, aged 17. And D. Beals, an apprentice of Mr. Jennings, light, aged 13. We do not understand that the wounds are mortal.

BALTIMORE, January 22.
The Paris Moniteur, of October 14, has an account of the attack on Boulogne, by a British division. After stating that no material damage effected, the Moniteur scolds most roundly, and the true revolutionary style (lately adopted by some warriors on this side the Atlantic) denounces the traitors as incendiaries! What a rascally band of English Incendiaries they must be—they will even the Galic imperialists on French ground, and in the very face of day!
Of the British Jamaica fleet, which suffered so severely off this coast, in August last, 78 have arrived. Great-Britain, 13 foundered, (in which 70 seamen, passengers, were drowned—141 saved) two abandoned (one of which, the Cora, was picked up and towed into a southern port) two arrived in the States, eight parted company whose fate is not collected, one arrived at Bermuda, and remains unaccounted for, total 190.

January 24.
Extract of a letter from Capt. John Shaw dated New-Orleans, Dec. 9.
I have ordered Lieut. Read and Patterson to the head of the river, where the French fleet, I think, will join them. Gun-boats, No. 11 and 12, will order to fort Plaquemine, to form a cross fire on any ascending foe. I take command of the keel eluvius. Lieut. Read I will place in the command of the Revenge, mounting ten six-pounders, as well as three armed barges, mounting two six pounders each. We shall move upwards with every dispatch, in order to drive on shore and destroy their advance of 500 men.

Extract of a letter from Fort Adams Nov. 17.
The war on the other side of the river is at an end.
The troops in this quarter, except one company of Michitoches, and a small detachment at this place ordered to New-Orleans; every piece of ordnance, all the ammunition, and other warlike stores and implements, are immediately to be moved off down the river.

The companies of Boote, Schuyler, and Swann, are also ordered to Orleans from the Mobile.
A requisition has been made for 500 militia of this territory to march for Orleans in 20 days from this instant.

We have no conjectures as to the object of this sudden and unexpected movement of the troops; the general will be here to-morrow and perhaps we may get some light on the subject.

Mr Secretary Mead, the acting governor of this territory, has ventured to censure the general and col. for not having closed the campaign sooner, and in a different way!—The general's weapon will be silent contempt;—a very powerful one in his hand against such an enemy.

January 26.
We have received a Charleston paper of the 12th inst. containing the 16th and 17th bulletins of the French army. The first of which is filled with anecdotal matter of Buonaparte's reply to the duke of Brunswick's application to him to respect his states—and is without date. The 17th is dated at "Potdam, 5th October, 1806," where Buonaparte arrived the day before. He visited the palace Sans-Souci, and remained sometime in the chamber of the great Frederick. The corps of marshal Laues arrived at Potdam on the 24th October. Marshal Davoust, with his corps, entered Berlin at 10 o'clock the same morning. General Hulin has been named commandant of the Prussian capital by Buonaparte. The corps of the marshal prince of Ponte-Corvo (Bernadotte) was at Brandenburg. Marshal Augereau's corps was to enter Berlin on the 26th of October. Buonaparte examined all the positions which environ Potdam, on his first arrival. He remained at that place all the day of the 25th October. Prince Ferdinand, brother of Frederick the great, remained at Berlin. The arsenal there contained 500 pieces of cannon, many millions of pounds of powder, and an immense quantity of small arms, which fell into the hands of the French. Gen. Bertrand, one of Buonaparte's aid-de-camps, has invested Spandau (which is defended by a Prussian garrison) with Dupont's division of dragoons. The grand duke of Berg (Murat) repaired to Spandau, to put himself in pursuit of the column which defiles from Spandau for Stettin, (on the Oder,) and which they hope to cut off. Marshal Bievre, commanding the imperial foot guards, and Marshal Bessieres, commandant of the imperial horse guards, arrived at Potdam October 24th. The foot guards made 14 leagues in a day. Magdeburgh is surrounded by marshal Ney. Marshal Soult has passed Elbe, about a day's journey from Magdeburgh, giving that place to the right, and pursues the Prussians towards Stettin. The weather, it is stated, was fine—it was the most favourable autumn that had been known. The remainder of the 17th bulletin is filled with an anecdote of Buonaparte and an Egyptian woman, a remark on the singular coincidence of time when Buonaparte arrived at Potdam, and a ludicrous satire on the queen of Prussia, who seems to be a theme for the exercise of French wit. If this day's mail produces nothing of importance, we may to-morrow, perhaps, find room for the anecdotal part of the bulletins.

In CHANCERY, January 19, 1807.

Josias B. Ford, and others, against

THE object of the bill in this cause is to obtain an injunction on a decree of the court of chancery, in a cause between Benjamin and Anne Ford, and others, against John Davidson, for the conveyance of a tract of land, lying in Baltimore and Anne-Arundel counties, called Hampton Court, on the ground that the same was purchased with money received by the said Davidson, which was due to Benjamin Ford, deceased, and that the complainants are interested therein, and for general relief; it is stated, that Anne Ford, one of the defendants, since the filing of the bill, hath intermarried with a person of the name of Hicks, and hath removed out of the state of Maryland. It is therefore adjudged and ordered, that the complainants, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted three weeks successively in the Maryland Gazette before the 20th day of February next, give notice to the said Anne of this application, and of the substance and object of the bill, that she and her said husband may appear here in person, or by a solicitor of this court, on or before the 20th day of June next, to shew cause, if any they have, wherefore a decree should not be passed as prayed.
